DAILY TRIBUNE.

Saturday Morning ..... Jan. 17, 1857.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

THE PAPERS.—Thanks to Mr. Nally & Co. for the New York papers of Wednesday.

GAME.—A consignment of a dozen deer were refused by the proprietors of the Tremont yesterday on account of the game law being in force for the protection of game.

PAPER DOLLS AND HOW TO MAKE THEM.—This useful and beautiful book for little girls may be obtained at the book store of Messrs. Cleaves & Wilson, Lake street. The American Almanac is also for sale by the same firm.

LA FAYETTE HOSE CO. No. 4, will have a benefit at Emett's Varieties, on Saturday evening, as this is the last performance of Emett's this season. All who wish a good night's entertainment, will do well to come.

BANQUET OF THE EXELSIOR SOCIETY.—The Exelsior Society of this city, composed of Sons of New York, will take place on the evening of the 22d instant, at the Richmond House. Extensive preparations are in progress.

MILITARY.—There will be a meeting of the officers composing the military of this city at the Engine House of No. 1, Saturday evening, to take measures for the preparation of a new military law and to secure its passage by the present Legislature.

FALSE PRETENSES.—George Bonsteyer was yesterday committed by Justice Hoisington for trial in default of $600 bail on a charge of obtaining $500 under false pretenses from Mr. Hayward of this city. The accused was arrested in Waukegan by one of the firm of C. P. Bradley & Co., Detective officers.

GAME LAW.—Parties in this city who are found 16 possession of game of any description must expect to be punished, as a bright look out is being kept for all violators of the game law. We learn that the Illinois Central Railroad refuse to transport game over their road.

WOOD FOR THE POOR.—Since the Mayor has received wood to dispose of to the poor of the city, some one nearly every day has given away. The applications are made at the police office, between ten and twelve o'clock A. M., and one and nine P. M. Considerable wood is also being sold at cost to those who can afford to pay.

Midshipman RICHARD W. GRAHAM, attached to the United States sloop-of-war Constellation, died recently at Constantinople, and was buried in the Kara Evoli burial ground, Scutari, on the 20th ult. He was from the District of Columbia, and entered the Naval Academy in 1851.—National Intelligencer.
The young man was son of Col. Graham of this city.

ROCK ISLAND GRAIN WAREHOUSE.—This large establishment has been rented and will hereafter run by Messrs. Flint & Wheeler, in addition to their own large grain elevator which is located near it. The building is the largest grain warehouse in the whole country, holding with ease some three-quarters of a million bushels of grain. It is to have an improvement in the working machinery, so that 900 cars of grain per day will be here taken and stored, and a time will be run into the building, and without uncooping, be unloaded at once into separate hoppers.

CIRCUIT COURT.—This Court, Judge Mariette presiding, adjourned after a lengthy session, at which a great deal of business has been transacted, which will be seen from the following: whole number of civil cases on the docket, 176; number of same continued, 107; whole number criminal causes, 64; disposed of, 27; continued 37; whole number of jury trials, including civil and criminal, 83. The Court was in session about two months, and one week of the time was taken up with criminal business.

NEW MUSIC.—Messrs. B. K. Mould & Co., No. 93 Lake street, send us the following pieces of Music, just received from the publishers: "You cannot hear my voice, Daughter," a ballad in answer to "Take me home to die;" words by Miss. Sarah T. Bolton, music by by Geo. S. Brown; "Why should the heart be sad?" a ballad, in the "Voice of the Spirit," a ballad, words by E. C. Phelps, made by Edward A. Payne; "Chase d' Amour," with brilliant variations, upon the theme of "The Gipsies Wild Chaunt," composed for the piano forte by Charles Grobe; "Yes I will write to Thee," a ballad in answer to the favorite song "Write to me;" "Star of Rome," one of the gems from the German, transcribed for the piano forte by Charles Grobe.

THE OLD FELLOWS FESTIVAL.—The annual festival of the Odd Fellow Societies of this city held at the Tremont House on thursday evening proved to be one of the most pleasant and successful affairs of the kind ever given in our city. The number in attendance was very large and during the early part of the evening the crowd was quite too large for comfort, but nevertheless everything passed off in the most satisfactory manner.
The supper was by all odds the finest ever furnish ed in the west. The tables were beautifully ornamented with pyramids of sugar, and the emblems of every emblem of the order was represented in sugar pieces. The tables were sumptuously provided with every delicacy and substantial in, and out of season, and the dishes were well compounded. Messrs Gage, Brother & Drake fairly eclipsed themselves on Thursday evening. The dancing hall was tastefully ornamented with flags, a portrait of Washington, cut

DAILY TRIBUNE.

No. 53 CLARK STREET.

CITY OF CHICAGO.

Saturday Morning ..... Jan. 17, 1857.

Printers' Day.

We had to close our paper early, yesterday, to enable the craft to enjoy "their day." We do not give, therefore, the night's telegraph, and the news by last night's mails.

Walker.

We observe that the New York papers discredit the rumors of WALKER's success brought by the California Steamer. These rumors come only through certain channels, and these channels are not considered very reliable. The story about Gen. CHILLOS declaring for WALKER, &c., is discredited, wholly. No one in New York knows who he is—the Nicaraguans never heard of him. Besides, if these successes had been won by WALKER, the information would have reached us through other sources. The conclusion in New York consequently, is that the "robber chief" is in a hopeless condition.

Repudiation.

The country will be startled by the decision of the California Court. It amounts to a formal repudiation of the State debt. What it means or how far it may extend, we are at a loss to conjecture; but it wears a bad look.

Whenever repudiation in any form has taken place, by States, long years have elapsed ere their creditors have obtained their rights. Indeed, too many of them have lost their all through it. It is, or has proved, swindling on a large scale.

We have no idea, that a Republican Court would give such a decision, or that a Republican Legislature or people would tolerate it.

"Six Lustrums."

We beg leave to suggest to the St. Louis Intelligencer, that Mr. GREEN, recently elected to the Senate from Missouri, should not be encouraged to look forward to six lustrums of service in that body. We trust that neither Mr. GREEN nor any other man of his principles will represent that State or any other in the Senate thirty years hence. Long before that time we hope that Border Ruffianism will have become mere matter of history.

Perhaps, however, the Intelligencer did not mean to intimate any possibility of such a continuance of power in the hands of those who scorn the Declaration of Independence and uphold Slavery—but that the editor was mistaken in the use of a word. If so, we commend him to a recurrence to his Latin Dictionary. We observe that verbal criticisms are in order, just now, in various journals.

British Army in Hindostan.

Most persons have very erroneous ideas of the distribution of the British troops, and the strength of the Indian army. The following is a return of the British and Indian army, made more than thirty years since in a time of peace. The probability is that it is much stronger now:

Royal Troops (Cavalry and Infantry).....	23,500
East India Company's European Troops.....	7,000
Company's Native Cavalry.....	11,000
" " Infantry.....	52,000
" " Artillery.....	5,000
Irregulars.....	1,500
Native Artillery.....	2,000
Total Indian Army.....	113,500

Here is a massive army, of which about 100,000 are available in the field. Unite this army with the Affghans, and the perfect control of every foot of the seas, and with the finest part of Persia exposed from the Coast—and we confess, it is not quite evident how the Russian Alliance, if it exist, is to avail Persia. Besides this, England can recruit her army from the natives to any extent, as the able-bodied fighting man in India numbers more than twelve millions.

Great Scarcity of Fuel in Cincinnati.

There is great distress in Cincinnati on account of the scarcity of fuel. Coal is 60 cents per bushel, and almost impossible at that. Certain monopolists have got control of the supply, and are exacting exorbitant prices from the people. Wood is held at fabulous prices, and only the rich are able to buy it.

Some of the railroads are charged with acting meanly—putting up the cost of freight at the time of the greatest need of fuel. The nearest and cheapest coal was to be had on the Marietta Road, but it was charged at the public meeting held in the Merchants Exchange, that the officers of the company and some of the stockholders were largely interested as owners in the coal mines on the route of that road, and that the cost of transportation was put up enormously in order to speculate on the sufferings of the people. Steps were taken at said meeting to import coal from Wheeling, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other points, and wood from Indiana. In regard to wood, it was shown that 40 to 50 miles out of the city, in almost every direction, wood was selling for $2 to $3 per cord; but that the railroads had all refused to haul it at a reasonable rate for fear of raising the price upon themselves, which they contended would happen if they opened a new market for it.

The meeting passed the following resolution which we ordered by THOS. J. GALLAGHER, Esq.:

Resolved, That the extortionate prices charged and exacted by the majority of coal dealers and speculators in this city, at this time, is cruel and inhuman, and demonstrates that they are unworthy the confidence, countenance, or sympathies, of all decent citizens.

Energetic steps were taken by the Relief Union to provide fuel for the suffering poor. Several of the roads agreed to carry fuel free of charge for their use. A large sum had been raised by voluntary contributions to be expended for the purchase of fuel for the poor and needy.

The manufacturers were suffering in consequence of the high price of coal. Many would be obliged to close their establishments if cheaper fuel could not be procured.

Evanston Seminary.

The citizens of Evanston met at the M. E. Church, on the evening of Monday, January 12, 1857, notice having been given from the pulpit on the preceding evening. Rev. Dr. Dempster, was called to the Chair, and Rev. P. Judson, chosen Secretary.

The harmony and unanimity which pervaded the meeting were characteristic of Evanston.

After a free interchange of views and feelings, and a careful examination into the wants of our own community and of others who are equally interested, the following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It is desirable that a Seminary, founded upon a permanent basis, and provided with means to afford ample facilities for carrying on such an institution, should be established and maintained in our community. And WHEREAS, we can not expect private enterprise to provide for such an expensive privilege, therefore,

Resolved, That we establish a Seminary in Evanston upon a joint stock basis, with a capital of $50,000, divided into one thousand shares of $50 each, to be under the control of a board of seven Trustees, who shall be stockholders.

A subscription to the stock of the institution was opened, and 410 shares, amounting to $20,500 immediately taken. Several citizens who are known to be favorable to the institution, and always ready, were not present, but will unite most cordially in the enterprise.

The question of location, usually so fruitful of strife, was settled by vote in a manner quite satisfactory to all present, and the meeting adjourned in excellent spirits, and was apparently satisfied with what himself and his neighbors had done.

That such an institution as that contemplated will speedily be erected and put in operation, there is no reasonable ground of doubt.

Congressional Corruptions.

There is a buzz at Washington, and talk all over the country about the corruption at Washington. Whether true or false, it is believed that bribery has been practiced on a large scale. We were curious, therefore, to see what PAYNE of North Carolina said on the subject. His words are thus reported in the Globe:

> I scarcely know whether I ought to say anything or not. I know nothing about that editor or his journal. I know nothing about any communication made to it. I know not how the editor obtained his information. I know not whether it is truer or falser. But I do know there has been a proposition made in the House by members of the House on the subject. (Sensation and cries of "Who is he?" "Expose him.")
>
> I shall not name the gentleman. ["Cries of "Down in front," "Stand out of the aisles," "We can't see."] I shall mention no member by name. [A voice—"You ought to do it."] It was with feelings of indignation I heard the proposition. [Impatient demands of "What was it?" "Tell it."] "The —— proposition" I do not announce it to the House was, that pending the organization of this body, when a member rose in his place and stated that a fellow member had made or an attempt to bribe him for his vote for Speaker, the only credit he received was that he was laughed at, and it was charged that he did not accept the proffered bribe because there was no such profitable place to be had. I say distinctly there is not a word of truth in the allegation contained in the Times article. A distinct proposition was made to me by Mr. HOUSE, in relation to the Minnesota Land Bill and that FIFTEEN HUNDRED DOLLARS WOULD BE GIVEN IN CONSIDERATION OF A VOTE FOR THE BILL. If the proposed communication shall be raised, and I am called on as a witness, I shall give my evidence in a week.
>
> It is believed, that PAYNE is in error as to the particular charge which he makes. EDWARDS of New York, the Courier says, is the individual referred to; but he was simply joking. "Payne mistook a jocular remark for a serious proffer of a bribe." The Journal adds:
>
> But I admit that the tendencies are towards corruption. The nation has become so very rich, the material interests which Congress acts are so vast, the effects of its action upon the fortunes of individuals are so direct, that a brilliant halo of fascination is thrown about its legislation, and people gather around it with as much confidence of making their fortunes by giving a good dinner, telling a good story, singing a song, or exploding a joke, as possessed the ignorance everywhere who thronged the suite-rooms of John Law, or rushed to subscribe for South Sea Stock.
>
> How natural, how almost inevitable is it, that members of Congress, many of them raised to wealth and position by the favor of legislation, knowing the enormous transactions, should be tempted to share in the advantages which they perceive to proceed from their votes. I know of but one way to counteract these temptations, and to eradicate corruption. It is to get rid of the surplus revenue by paying off all the debts of the Government as fast as possible, as well as those which are represented by the Public Stocks as those which are included in yet unadmitted claims.

Fuel Famine.

This heading sounds strangely, yet Cincinnati has been suffering from all its horrors. Last summer the Ohio River was too low to be navigated; all winter, almost, it has been closed by ice. But Cincinnatians are a warm-hearted people, and know how to cooperate, when cooperation is needed for humanity's sake. Two public meetings have been held, committees appointed, and means devised, to get coal into the city. The Gazette says:

> The Gas Company, Ohio & Miss. R. R., Little Miami R. R., C. H. H. & D. R. R., and Hamilton & Eaton R. R., have come forward nobly and in the most handsome manner, and a delaying of the thanks of the public, and will we are sure receive the blessings of the poor. About the Marietta & C. & Hills. R. R. we are in doubt. We shall be able to decide in a day or two whether they are entitled to blessings or curses.

The same journal has the following:

> In our walks around the city we have, within the last few days, heard related several painful instances of the distress now existing—amongst others, the following one night last week, one of our city officials saw a man come out of an alley with a load of wood on his shoulders. He went up to him and charged him with stealing it. The reply was—"I am sorry, but my children are freezing with cold. I have no wood, and no money. The man from whom I have taken this has plenty of wood. When better times come, I will go and tell him what I have done, and pay him. If you wish to put me in jail, I will go to the station-house with you without a word; but, sir, for God's sake, let me take this wood home to my family." Near Jefferson was of a family near the intersection of George and Mound streets, who from Friday last until Sunday were without fuel and without food. The consequence of their privation was, that on awaking on Sunday morning, they found their little infant of five months old lying stretched out DEAD from a premature and cold!

Coal is abundant near Cincinnati, and will be secured in a few days. This will show how easily that city may be made independent of the river, and where the blame, all suffering for want of fuel will be saved.

(For the Tribune.)

MR. EDITOR:—

You Springfield correspondent suggests action on the Lamp Law of the Legislature this winter. I am a citizen of Massachusetts, and in that old and wealthy State I have felt the beneficial operation of Legislative restrictions on the sale of Lamp Oil. I have felt so potently the necessity of this restriction that I, in union with others of like views, contributed to the expense of the publication of Mr. Whipple's essay on the subject (by the kind of Legislatures—and copies were profusely scattered throughout the county, and I have now in my trunk a few which I brought with me for the benevolent purpose of propagating my own views as to a glorious rapid state. But after a careful study of the extraordinary condition of this developing young country, seeing only the advent of new money to increase the wonder of this world, my views are entirely changed. For every new dollar brought here I can see a duplicate series to keep it company; and without the transacting influence, the legislation and adherence, now hidden and insensible to other influences, so lavishly diffused throughout the whole structure of this unequaled domain, will remain like the unused talent of Scripture fable, fruitless and powerless.

Eastern capitalists have no appreciative knowledge of this Great West; they look upon it as a very fine bubble, expecting, every morning's breakfast, to read of its explosion. Now could sufficient inducements be offered to come and see, these misconceptions would melt away, and they would be inadequately remunerated at home, would flow in and re-vivify this whole country. One great big-hearted Yankee trait—the disregard of artificial restrictions—is what is needed to develop the resources of this, the Great West. From his window in one of the Siberian towns, he had counted eleven poles covered with eternal snow. The Kirghises, he added, made only the few races whose habits had remained unchanged for thousands of years, and they had the remarkable peculiarity of combining a monastic with a nomadic life. They were partly Buddhist and partly Mussulman, and their monk-like sects blended the different characters in marriage, carrying on their devotions in the encampments, inside of a sacred circle marked out by spears. He had seen their ceremonies, and was struck with their resemblance to those of the Catholic church.

Humboldt's recollections of the Altai Mountains naturally led him to speak of the Andes. "You, Humboldt," said Napoleon, "whom you not agree with me in the opinion that the finest mountains in the world are those whose single tones of perpetual snow rising out of the gentle undulations of the verdure of the Himalayas, although lofter, can scarcely make an equal impression; they lie farther to the north, without the belt of tropical growths, and their sides are dreary and sterile in comparison. You remember Orizaba, continued he, "here is an engraving from a rough sketch of mine. I hope you will find it correct." He rose and took down the illustrated folio which accompanied the last edition of his "Minor Writings," turned over the leaves, and recalled, at each plate, some reminiscence of his American travel. "I was right," he said, "in originating the name of the Northern Andes, but I had forgotten to come to us. We will, therefore, rely upon the justice of our cause, and hope yet to redeem California from the imputation of being little better than a desert, and place her among the honored sisters whose moral sense, whose intelligence, whose humanity have been so digitally manifested in the struggle just past.

REPORTED SUCCESS OF WALKER.

Wines & Co. Express learn that they have received advices from Gen. Walker, to the 9th or 10th of December. Walker is reported to have taken the steamers San Carlos and Isabella on the Lake of Nicaragua, transported troops to Grenada for the relief of Gen. Henningsen and his troops. Henningsen succeeded in recruiting to the boats, and returned with Walker to the Lake. Walker is represented as having strongly fortified River—mouting it his headquarters. He is also represented as having 2,000 fighting men at his command, and that he could get up to 5,000 by the 1st of January. San Juan del Sur. The Nicaraguan brig-of-war, commanded by Capt. Fayoux, was lying off the port of San Juan del Sur, with nothing to do. The Express learns that her return, it is expected, will bring a declaration of 500 men from San Francisco for Walker.

Mr. Alexander C. Lawrence, in addition to ordering subscriptions to the above paper, adds that Walker's army, on its return to Rivas, met the Costa Ricans about two miles from the city. An engagement took place in which the enemy were routed, Walker's forces sustaining no loss whatever. The Costa Ricans retreated in disorders and fled, not daring to give battle to the conquering army. Walker's army, on its return to Rivas, was received with the greatest enthusiasm. Unusual Chance.

THOSE WISHING TO ENGAGE IN A legitimate and very profitable business, a safety investment, can learn particulars by calling at No. 3 Tremont House, Chicago, and remain in attendance any portion of the month, commencing on the 15th inst. Those who have seen the admirable little graph of Hildebrand's Panorama, know precisely how the room looks. There was the plain table, the writing desk, covered with papers and manuscripts, the little green sofa, and the same old arm-chair, in the shadow of which, on the wall, the picture had been so long hanging in my own room at home, that I at once recognized each particular object.

Seated in the arm-chair, announced my name, and Humboldt immediately appeared. He came up to me with a heartiness and cordiality which made me feel that I was in the presence of a friend, gave me his hand, and inquired whether we should converse in English or German. "Your letter," said he "was that of a German, and you must certainly speak the language familiarly; but I am also in the constant habit of using English, and in order to save my taking one end of the green sofa, observing that he rarely sat upon it himself, then drew up a plain cane-bottomed chair and seated himself beside it, taking me to speak a little louder than usual, as his hearing was not so acute as formerly.

As I looked at the majestic old man, the line of Tennyson, describing Wellington, came into my mind: "Oh, good gray head, which all men know." The first impression made by Humboldt's face is that of a broad and genial kindness, and this is followed by that of the gathered wisdom of nearly a century, beds forward and overhangs his breast, like a ripe ear of corn, but as you look below it, a pair of clear blue eyes shine out bright and steady as a child's most your own. In those eyes you read that trust in man, that immortal youth of the heart, which make the snows of eighty-seven winters like lightly upon his head. You trust him intuitively at the first glance, and you feel that he will trust you, if you are worthy of it, I had approached him with a natural feeling of reverence, but in five minutes I found that I could talk with him as freely as with a friend of my own age. His tone, mouth and chin have the heavy Teutonic character whose generic type always expresses an honest, unsophisticated directness.

I was most surprised by the youthful character of his face. I knew that he had been frequently indisposed during the present year, and that during the last he was beginning to show the marks of his extreme age; but I should not have suspected him of being over seventy-five. His wrinkles are few and small and his skin has a healthy clearness and delicacy rarely seen in old men. His hair, although snow white, is still abundant, his step slow but firm, and his manner active almost to restlessness. He sleeps but four hours out of the twenty-four, reads and replies to his daily train of letters, and suffers no single occurrence of the least interest in any part of the world to escape his attention. I could not perceive that his memory, the first mental faculty to show decay, is at all impaired. He talks rapidly, with the greatest apparent ease, never hesitating for a word, whether in English, German or French, and in fact, seemed to be unconscious which language he was using, as he changed five or six times in the course of the conversation. He did not remain by his chair more than ten minutes at a time, frequently getting up during the interview, from the room, now and then pointing to a picture or opening a book to illustrate some remark.

He began by referring to my winter journey into Lower California. "I have felt for you, my letter," he asked. "Your experience will be very interesting it is true, but will you not suffer from the severe cold?" "That remains to be seen," I answered. "I have often read of mules' ears the Arctic without the least injury. The last two years of my travels were spent in tropical countries, and now I wish to have the strongest possible contrast."

"That is very natural," he remarked, "and I can understand how your object in travel must lead you to seek such contrasts; but you will possess a remarkably healthy organization."

"You doubtless know from your experience," I said, "that nothing preserves a man's vitality like travel."

"Very true," he answered, "if it does not kill at the outset. For my part I keep my health every where, like yourself. During five years in Central America, and the West Indies, I passed through the midst of black vomit and yellow fever untouched."

Apropos of my projected visit to Russia, and my desire to cross the Russian-Tartar provinces of Central Asia. The Kirghis steppes, he said, were very monotonous; fifty miles gave you the picture of a thousand; but the people were singularly interesting. He desired to go there, it would have no difficulty in passing through them to the Chinese frontier; but the southern provinces of Siberia, he thought would best repay me. The eastern spurs of the Altai Mountains was very grand. From his window in one of the Siberian towns, he had counted eleven peaks covered with eternal snow. The Kirghises, he added, were among the few races whose habits had remained unchanged for thousands of years, and they had the remarkable peculiarity of combining a monastic with a nomadic life. They were partly Buddhist and partly Mussulman, and their monk-like sects blended the different characters in marriage, carrying on their devotions in the encampments, inside of a sacred circle marked out by spears. He had seen their ceremonies, and was struck with their resemblance to those of the Catholic church.

Notice.

THE PAST EIGHTEEN MONTHS' EXperience has given the citizens of Chicago ample proof that skin and scalp diseases of a humiliating character can be entirely removed by the use of Dr. Hall's Medicated Soap, and the Hair Restorer. The best of the matter is, that the cures are permanent. Many persons have used, and considered themselves cured by, other articles, but in their vanity, they had to be again reminded of their unsightly appearance by the return of the disease. Many of this class have been induced to try Dr. Hall's Medicated Soap and Hair Restorer, and in every case, the effect of it has been permanent. Many have used it for a time, and then left off, and the disease has returned. Such persons will find that only another application of the Soap and Restorer is necessary to effect a cure. Dr. Hall's Medicated Soap and Hair Restorer are the only two remedies known to the public that are sold on their merits. They are sold by druggists everywhere, and by CODE & MOLLIS, Chemists, Chicago. Dr. Hall's Medicated Soap and Hair Restorer are for sale by R. H. Reed & Co., Stone, Smith & Co., Stoup & Belmont, Preston, Fisher & Co., Jay & Bateman, Stokes & Isaac Harlow, Price & Co., and Druggists generally. dec31

BRYANT & STRATTON'S MERCANTILE COLLEGE.—This is one of the best institutions in the country, and the very best place for young men to spend their winter evenings. P. S. Spencer's Writing Classes are now in progress. Students can enter at any time during the day or evening. Office hours 2 to 4 P.M. See advertisement in tomorrow's papers. Rooms, 62 Clark street, opposite George Smith's Bank.

MERRIMON'S LONDON CORDIAL GIN.—A perfectly pure Tonic and Invigorating Cordial. This article is manufactured in London, under the rigorous supervision of the Queen Prime Minister, and Lord Mayor of London, and is the only Cordial which punish such severe penalties any attempt at the adulteration of any article designed for food or drink, from the Lord Mayor's Table, impregnated with the Juniper Berry, and other delicate tonics from the Materia Medica. It has been submitted to the severest chemical tests and acknowledged to be free from any deleterious substance, and recommended as a perfectly pure stimulant and beverage, by Dr. Ure, the chemist and dietetic Dr. Hall, Dr. Normandy, Dr. Hunter, Dr. Shelton, Wallace, Dr. Tooley, Adams and Rizard, A.A. Hayes, State Assayer, Boston, Mass., and Dr. Chilton, Dr. Fisher, Dr. Hosack, and other eminent scientific men, stating each analist and several hundred others, who thoroughly prescribe it in their practice for kidney and gravel complaints, dyspepsia, general debility, nervousness, and chronic remedies. In all diseases where the system requires a moderate stimulant—also in fevers, sour stomach, and lowness of spirits, the article will be found a great acquisition. Sold by druggists and grocers by the quart and bottles, with the words "R. K. Messenger & Co., Philadelphia," blown in the glass, and their name printed, stamped and engraved. The labels are copy-righted in New York, and the bottles are sealed and corded with the name of the firm. The great care should be taken that it corresponds accurately with this description before purchasing, as many worthless imitations are offered. Be sure that it corresponds accurately with this description before purchasing, as many worthless imitations are offered. Be sure that it is absolutely genuine. Sold by druggists generally, or by mail. Price $1 per bottle, or half dozen for $5. Orders for the trade or others, promptly attended to, and forwarded with dispatch, if addressed to R. K. MESSENGER & CO., Importers of Jamaica and Holland Gin, 9 Pollock-st., New York; 14 Lincoln-st., Boston. dec30-3m

CLARKE'S FEMALE PILLS.—THE GREAT ENGlish Remedy.—Prepared from a Prescription of Dr. J. Clarke, M. D., Physician Extraordinary to the Queen.—This valuable medicine is confidently recommended to the notice of the female sex, as a never failing remedy in all cases of difficult and dangerous disorders to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and a speedy cure may be relied on. To Married Ladies it is peculiarly suited. It will, in a short time, restore them to the healthy period with regularity. Each box, price one dollar, is accompanied with a Government Stamp of Great Britain, to prevent counterfeiting.

CAUTION.

None of the above pills are genuine that are sold unless they have the words "Clarke's Female Pills" engraved on the Government Stamp of Great Britain, which is pasted on every box. Sold by all Druggists in Chicago. dec31-1y-dtf

CONSUMPTION CURED.—Be not deceived by base imitations. HEDEMAN, CLARK & CO.'S GENUINE COD LIVER OIL stores disappoints, and is the only reliable remedy for CONSUMPTION. As there is a great deal of worthless oil in the market adulterated with rosin oil, which is not a remedy for consumption, we would caution the people that the oil is sealed in our own factory in Newfoundland, and each bottle has our signature over the cork, be careful to inquire for Hedeman, Clark & Co.'s Genuine Cod Liver Oil, and take no other. Sold by all druggists. Manufactured by H. Hedeman, Clark & Co., Stones, Smith & Co., Stoup & Belmont, Preston, Fisher & Co., Jay & Bateman, Stokes & Isaac Harlow, Price & Co., and Druggists generally. dec31
